But One Pair of Stockings to Mend To-Night.

An old woman sat by her bright fireside,
Swaying thoughtfully to and fro,
In an ancient chair whose creaky craw
Told a tale of long ago;
While down by her side on the kitchen floor,
Stood a basket of worsted balls—a score.

The good man dozed o'er the latest news,
Till the light of his pipe went out;
And unheeded, the kitten, with cunning paws,
Rolled and tangled the ball about;
Yet still sat the wife in the ancient chair,
Swaying to and fro in the fire-light glare.

But anon, a misty tear-drop came
In the eye of the faded blue,
Then trickled down in a furrow deep,
Like a single drop of dew;
So deep was the channel—so silent the stream,
The old man saw naught but the dim'd eye-beam.

Yet marvelled he much that the cheerful light
Of her eye had weary grown,
And marvelled he more at the tangled balls—
So he said in a gentle tone,
"I have shared thy joys since our marriage vow,
Conceal not thy sorrows from me now."

Then she spoke of the time when the basket there
Was filled to the very brim,
And now there remains of the goodly pile
But a single pair—for him;
Then wonder not at the dim'd eye light—
There's but one pair of stockings to mend to-night.

I cannot but think of the busy feet,
Whose wraplings were wont to lie
In the basket, awaiting the needle's time—
Nor wandered so far away;
How the sprightly steps to and fro her dear
Unheeded fell on the cat's ear.

For each empty nook in the basket told,
By the hearth there was an empty seat;
And I miss the shoes from the wall,
And the patter of many feet;
'Tis for this the tear gathered o'er my sight—
At the one pair of stockings to mend to-night.

'Twas sad that far through the forest wild
And o'er the mountains bold,
Was land whose rivers and darkening caves
Were gemmed with the fairest gold;
Then my first born turned from the oaken door,
And I knew the shadows were only four.

Another went on the foaming wave,
And diminished the basket's store—
But his feet grew cold—so weary and cold—
They'll never be warm any more—
And this nook in its emptiness, seemoth to me,
To give forth no voice but the moan of the sea.

Two others have gone towards the setting sun,
And made them a home in its light,
And fairy fingers have taken their share,
To mend by the fire-side bright;
Some other baskets their garments fill—
But mine! oh! mine is emptier still!

Another—the dearest—the fairest—the best—
Was taken by angels away,
And clad in a garment that waxeth not old,
In a land of continual day,
Oh! wonder no more at the dim'd eye-sight,
While I mend the one pair of stockings to-night!

CRAPE ON THE DOOR.

BY JOHN A. WILLIS.

There is snow on the hillside,
And a glittering chain
Of frost hangeth over
The trees down the lane;
And, with closed icy portal
The brooklet is still,
While the gusts of December
Blow dreary and chill;
But here the bright firelight
Falls warm on the floor—
Still my heart is as cold—
There is crape on the door!

A silence unbroken
Each chamber doth fill—
The dead with the living—
How still, oh! how still!
The dead with the living—
A sorrowful scence—
But worse when the snowflake
And a turf be atween!
Yet the snow it shall melt
When the winter is o'er;
But, alas for the summer—
There is crape on the door!

When the fields were all bright
With the ripening grain,
In the soft dust of summer,
Thick-strewn o'er the lane,
Mong the eight little foot-prints,
How soon we could tell
Where that of our weeny
Weak trembler fell!
And six little foot-prints
May meet us once more;
But two are departed—
There is crape on the door!

There's a sound, as of weeping,
While the death-angel's wing
Hath dropped its dark shadow
O'er each living thing!
And three little faces,
With sorrow I see,
Look up to my face,
From their place by my knee.
Only three little faces—
Alas, there were four—
Are now in their places,
With crape on the door!

There is crape on the door;
Yet a snowy white band
Hath been twined 'mid its folds,
By some angelic hand—
For they passed on the threshold,
Ere they bore off our boy,
To leave with our mourning
A token of joy;
And the angel, whose footsteps
Had passed o'er our floor,
Left a part of his robe
With crape on the door.

Sweet Summer! she brings up the roses,
Like miracles, out of the ground!
And on the old trees in the orchard
Makes apples grow ruddy and round!
Loops up the red cherries in bunches,
On the trees, that hang over the wall,
And scatters the grapes on the lattice,
The daintiest darlings of all!

Select Miscellany.

A SPECULATION.

The following incident actually took place in Baltimore, a few years since, and is an evidence of the truth of the saying that the companions of one's youth is said that the companions of [y]ung that woman were not long in discernly left one of their number had [fa]llen in their ranks.

"How do you sell [yo]ur flowers?" said one of the a good-looking stranger to a pretty little damsel Southern States to had hitherto been in the market, with posies and similar notions honestly compelled to sell to maintain herself and family.

"Twenty cents, sir," said the maiden, holding up to the gaze of the stranger a sweet scented bunch.

"Oh!" said the gentleman.

"Indeed they are," said the maiden.

"I see much so that I cannot possibly conceive how you can make a living at the business."

"Ah, sir," said the pretty damsel, "the times are so hard that we are compelled to do the best we can. By economy, sir, we manage to get along. Did those who live in glittering palaces but know how severe is the lot of the poor and dejected, we might, perhaps, get a little more for our labor. But alas! sorry I am to be compelled to say it, truly, justice is blind, and dim indeed is the vision of opulence."

Here the stranger, touched by the powerful remarks of the pretty flower-girl, was seen to drop his head and let fall a tear of sorrow. Recovering, however, he continued as follows:

"Here, my pretty one, why not turn your attention to something more profitable?"

"I know not what, sir," said the girl.

"Why not turn your attention to speculation?"

"But I know not what kind, sir," said the girl, "and if I did, I am not possessed of the capital."

"Oh!" said the gentleman, "there are some kinds of speculation in which to meet success a capital is not required."

"Name it, sir."

"Marriage."

"Sir," said the little maiden, "my chances in that kind of a speculation are poor—poor indeed."

"Perhaps not as poor as you imagine."

"I have now on my hands a dear father and mother to support by my little earnings, and to marry a youth as poor as myself would only be heaping misfortunes on our already overburdened shoulders."

"But, perhaps, in the search you might fall in with some one who has more of the world's treasure than yourself."

"But to get him," modestly articulated the girl.

"'Twere an easy task, if he loves you."

"But where shall I find him? Which way shall I look?"

"Here, my pretty one," said the gentleman at the same time throwing his eyes upon the young girl in such a manner as to leave no doubt on her mind that she was adored by the stranger.

* * * * The couple became more intimate with each other. The stranger bought the flowers of the maiden, and as a compensation, he gave her a fortune of hundred thousand dollars; with a written contract that himself should be thrown into the bargain.

They are now man and wife, the aged parents are comforted in their declining years, the maiden is not obliged to vend her nosegays, and the stranger, doubtless, blesses the day he visited the City of Monuments, and went to buy the blue-eyed maiden's charming flowers.

GOODNESS.—Did it ever strike you, that goodness is not merely a beautiful thing, but THE beautiful thing—by far the most beautiful thing in the world; and that badness is not merely an ugly thing, but THE ugliest thing in the world? So that nothing is to be compared for value with goodnes; that riches, honor, power, pleasure, learning, the whole world and all in it are not worth having, in comparison with being good; and the utterly best thing for a man is to be good, even though he were never to be rewarded for it; and the utterly worst thing for a man is to be bad, even though he were never to be punished for it; and, in a word, goodness is the only thing worth loving, and badness the only thing worth hating.

☞ Cæsar in war like matters, minded more what was to conquer than what was conquered; what was to gain, than what was gained; so does an humble soul mind more what he should be, than what he is; what is to be done than what is already accomplished.

☞ A cotemporary paper says:—"If you would keep your children in health, give them plenty of fresh air." This is all well enough; but, now-a-days, children put on so many airs of their own, that it is impossible to give them a fresh one every day.

LETTER FROM A DYING WIFE.

The following most touching fragment of a letter from a dying wife to her husband, says the Nashville Gazette, was found by him, some months after her decease, between the leaves of a religious volume which she was very fond of perusing. The letter, which was literally dim with her tear-marks, was written long before her husband was aware that the grasp of the fatal disease had fastened upon the lovely form of his wife, who died at the early age of nineteen.

"When this shall reach your eye, dear George, some day when you are turning over the relics of the past, I shall have passed away forever, and the cold white stone will be keeping its watch over the lips you have so often pressed, and the sod will be growing green that shall hide forever from you the dust of one who has often nestled close to your warm heart.—For many long and sleepless nights, when all beside my thoughts were at rest, I have wrestled with consciousness of approaching death, until at last it has forced itself upon my mind; and although to you and others it might not so appear, dear George, it is so! Many weary nights have I passed in the endeavor to reconcile myself to leaving you, whom I love so well, and this bright world of sunshine and beauty; and hard indeed it is to struggle on silently and alone, with the sure conviction that I am about to leave all forever, and go down into the dark valley; "but I know in whom I have believed," and leaning on his arm, "I fear no evil." Do not blame me for keeping all this from you. How could I subject you, of all others, to such sorrow as I feel at parting, when time will soon make it apparent to you. I could have wished to live, if only to be at your side when your time shall come, and pillowing your head on my breast, wipe the death damps from your brow, and usher your departing spirit into a Maker's presence, embalmed in woman's holiest prayer. But it is not to be, and I submit. Yours is the privilege of watching, thro' long and dreary nights, the spirit's final flight, and of transferring my sinking head from your breast to the Savior's bosom; and you shall share my last thought, and the last faint pressure of the hand and the last feeble kiss shall be yours, and even when flesh and heart shall have failed me, my eyes shall rest on yours until glazed by death, and our spirits shall hold one last communion, until gently fading from my view—the last of earth—you shall mingle with the first bright glimpses of the unfading glories of the better world, where partings are unknown. Well do I know the spot, my dear George, you will lay me; often we stood by the place, and as we watched the mellow sunset as it glanced in quivering flashes through the leaves, and burnished the grassy mounds around us with stripes of burnished gold, each perhaps has thought that some day one of us would come alone, and which ever it might be, your name would be on the stone. But we loved the spot, and I know you will love it none the less, when you see the same quiet sunlight linger and play among the grass that grows over your Mary's grave. I know you will go there, and my spirit will be with you there, and whisper among the waving branches—"I am not lost, but gone before."

SERVING AND PRAISING GOD.

Not a cloud which fleets across the sky, not a clod of earth which crumbles under the frost, not a blade of grass which breaks through the snow in spring, not a dead leaf which falls to the earth in autum, but is doing God's work, and showing forth God's glory. Not a tiny insect, too small to be seen by human eyes without the help of a microscope, but is as fearfully and wonderfully made as you and me, and has its proper food, habitation, work appointed for it, and not in vain. Nothing is idle, nothing is wasted, nothing goes wrong, in this wonderous world of God. The very scum upon the standing pool, which seems dirt and dust, is all alive, peopled by millions of creatures, each full of beauty, full of use, obeying laws of God too deep for us to do aught but dimly guess at them; and as men see deeper and deeper into the commonest things about them they find wonder and glory in the mystery of God's creation, such as eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, nor hath it entered into the heart of man to conceive; and can only say with the Psalmist, "Oh! Lord thy ways are infinite, thy thoughts are very deep;" and confess that the grass beneath their feet, the clouds above their heads—ay, every worm beneath the sod and bird upon the bough—do in every deed and truth, bless the Lord who made them, praise him, and magnify him forever, not with words indeed, but with works; and say to him all day long, "Go, thou, and do likewise."

☞ There is this difference between happiness and wisdom; he that thinks himself the happiest man really is so, but he that thinks himself the wisest, is generally the greatest fool.

☞ Green corn, from more Southern fields, are among the luxuries of the Memphis (Tenn.) market.

THE SYMPATHIZING WOMAN.

If we were called upon to describe Mrs. Dobbs, we would, without hesitation, call her a sympathising woman. Nobody was troubled with any malady she hadn't suffered.

"She knows all about it by experience, and could sympathize with them from the bottom of her heart."

Bob Turner was a wag, and when one day he saw Mrs. Dobbs coming along the road towards his house, he knew that, in the absence of his wife, he should be called upon to entertain her, so he resolved to play a little on the good woman's abundance of sympathy. Hastily procuring a large blanket, he wrapped himself up in it, and threw himself on a sofa near by.

"Why, good gracious! Mr. Turner, are you sick?" asked Mrs. Dobbs, as she saw his position.

"O, dreadful," groaned the imaginary invalid.

"What's the matter?"

"O, a great many things. First and foremost, I've got a congestion of the brain."

"That's dreadful," sighed Mrs. Dobbs. "I came very near dying of it, ten years to come next spring. What else?"

"Dropsy!" again roared Bob.

"There I can sympathize with you. I was troubled with it, but finally got well."

"Neuralgia," continued Bob.

"Nobody call tell, Mr. Turner, what I have suffered from neuralgia. It's an awful complaint."

"Then again, I'm very much distressed by inflammation of the bowels."

"If you've got that I pity you," commented Mrs. Dobbs. "For three long years steady, I was afflicted with it, and I don't think I've fully recovered yet."

"Rheumatism," added Bob.

"Yes, that's pretty likely to go along with neuralgia. It did with me."

"Toothache," suggested Bob.

"There have been times, Mr. Turner," said the sympathizing woman, "when I thought I would have gone distracted with the toothache."

"Then," said Bob, who, having temporarily ran out of his stock of medical terms, resorted to a scientific name, "I'm very much afraid that I have got the tethyarasus!"

"I shouldn't be surprised at all," said the ever-ready Mrs. Dobbs; "I had it when I was young."

Though it was with great difficulty that he could resist laughing, Bob continued:

"I'm suffering from a sprained ankle a good deal."

"Then you can sympathize with me, Mr. Turner, I sprained mine when I was coming along."

"But that isn't the worst of it."

"What is it?" asked Mrs. Dobbs, with curiosity.

"I wouldn't tell any one but you, Mrs. Dobbs, but the fact is,"—here Bob gave an awful groan—"I'm afraid, and the doctor agrees with me, that my reason is affected, that, in short, I'm a little crazy."

Bob took breath, wondering what Mrs. Doobs would say to that.

"Oh, Mr. Turner, is it possible!" exclaimed the lady. "It's horrible! I know it is. I frequently have spells of being out of my head myself!"

Bob could stand it no longer; he burst into a roar of laughter, which Mrs. Dobbs taking for the precursor of a violent paroxysm of insanity, she was led to take a hurried leave.

CARRYING POTATOES TO BE DUG!—A soldier of the West, being off of duty, was engaged by a landlord to dig a patch of potatoes, on condition he should be furnished with a bottle of whiskey to begin with. The landlord accordingly took him to the field, showed him the patch, and left him with a full bottle of the favorite beverage. About an hour afterwards, the landlord went to see how the son of Mars progressed in his business of farming; he found him holding himself up by an old stump, unable to stand without it, his bottle lying empty at his feet, and no potatoes dug. Being quite exasperated, the landlord gave him a shake, exclaiming,—"Hallo! you scoundrel! is this the way you dig my potatoes for me?" "Hah," says the soldier, lapping his tongue, staggering half round, squinting and hiccuping, "If you want any taters dug, fetch 'em on!"

☞ "Bridget, bring the castor oil, the baby is sick."

"It's all gone, marm, not a drop left."

"All gone! why, we have not opened the bottle."

"Sure you had it every day, and I've seen you use it myself on your salad."

"Why, you don't say we have been eating castor oil every day during the salad season."

"Sure you have."

"But did you not see the bottle was labelled castor oil?"

"Sure and I did, marm; and didn't I put it into the castor every day."

☞ Some people seem to consider the severity of their censures on the failings of others as a full atonement of their own.

HIGHER.

Higher! it is a word of noble meaning—the inspirations of all great deeds—the sympathetic chain that leads link by link, the impassioned soul to zenith of glory, and holds its mysterious object standing and glittering among the stars.

Higher! lisps the infant that clasps its mother's knees, and makes its feeble essay to rise from the floor—it is the first inspiration of childhood—to burst the narrow confines of the cradle in which the sweetest moments have passed forever.

Higher! earnestly breathes the student of philosophy and nature; he has a host of rivals, but he must eclipse them all.—The midnight oil burns dim, but he finds light and knowledge in the lamp of heaven, and his soul is never weary when the last of them is hid behind the curtains of morning.

And higher! his voice thunders forth, when the dignity of manhood has invested his form and the multitude are listening to his oracles, burning with eloquence, and ringing like true steel in the cause of freedom and the right. When time has changed his locks to silver, and world-wide in his renown; when the maidens gathering flowers by the road side, and the boy in the field, bow in reverence as he passes, and peasants look to him in honor, can he breathe forth from his heart the fond wish of the past.

Higher yet! He has reached the apex of earthly honor, yet the spirit burns as warm as youth with a steadier and paler light, and it would even borrow wings and soar up to high heaven, leaving its tenement to mould among the laurels he has wound around it, for the never-ending glory to be reached only in the presence of the Most High.

TALE OF AN ELEPHANT.

Tell my grandchildren, said the late Right Rev. Daniel Wilson, writing home from India, that an elephant here had a disease in his eyes. For three days he had been completely blind. His owner, an engineer officer, asked my dear Dr. Webb if he could do anything to relieve the poor animal. The doctor said he would try nitrate of silver, which was a remedy commonly applied to similar diseases in the human eye. The huge animal was ordered to lie down, and at first on the application of the remedy, raised a most extraordinary roar at the acute pain which it occasioned. The effect, however, was wonderful. The eye was, in a manner, restored, and the animal could partially see. The next day, when he was brought, and heard the doctor's voice, he got down of himself, curled up his trunk, drew in his breath just as a man about to endure an operation, gave a sigh of relief when it was over, and then, by trunk and gestures, evidently wished to express his gratitude.—What sagacity! What an example to us of patience!

WONDERFUL FEAT.—The papers from time to time note the circumstances that a daring person had climbed the Salisbury spire to oil the weathercock. This is a dangerous feat, as the top of the spire is 404 feet from the ground. It is ascended by ladders for about three fourths of the height, which are fixed inside the spire.—A small door then opens, and the adventurer has to climb the rest of the way by a series of irons, something like the handles of flat irons, which are fixed in the stonework, and by which he is able to make his way to the top. About forty years ago, I am told, some persons were assembled at the Pheasant, in Salisbury, and were talking about this feat, when a watchmaker of the name of Arnold, who was present, offered for a small wager to ascend the spire; to take with him his tools and a watch; to take the watch to pieces on the very top of the spire, clean it and bring it down in less than an hour. He then ascended the spire, fixed his his back against the stem of the weathercock, finished his task, and descended within the given time.—Notes and Queries.

☞ "Oh, I met such a pretty girl in the street, to-day," said a gentleman to a lady to whom he was doing the attentive, not many sevenings since; "she was in deep mourning; I think I have never seen a sweeter face." "Who could it have been?" said the hearer, smoothing down her bombazine dress, and glancing at the crape folds to see if they were adjusted. "Pretty, you say?" Who could it have been? I was not out!"

☞ It is little troubles that wear the heart out. It is easier to throw a bombshell a mile than a feather—even with artilery. Forty little debts of a dollar each, will cause you more trouble and dunning than one big one of a thousand.

☞ When a man begins to amass money, he begins to feed an appetite which nothing can appease, and which its proper food will only render fiercer. "He that loveth silver shall not be satisfied with silver."

THE WORLD.—This is the title of a new daily paper, the publication of which was commenced in New York, on Thursday last. In typographical appearance it very nearly resembles the New York Tribune. It is printed on good paper and clear type, and is altogether a handsome sheet. In politics it is independent. So far it has discussed political topics with freedom and in a manner which shows it to be above mere party scheming. It contains the very latest intelligence by telegraph and correspondence from all parts of the world. It is edited with that ability and boldness which must make it a successful rival of all the other dailies in New York. It is a large eight page paper, yet it is furnished to carriers or news agents at the low price of one penny a day, or mailed to subscribers at $4 per annum. The semi-weekly is furnished at $3 per annum, and the weekly at $2 per annum. How such a paper can be furnished at such a low price, we cannot understand, one penny a day, will hardly furnish the paper on which it is printed. Those who wish a good New York daily should subscribe for The World.

☞ The Japanese are now enjoying (we should rather say suffering) the hospitality of the New Yorkers. Their habits of life are so widely different from ours that the regime to which they have been subjected must have well nigh driven them to the verge of despair, and they no doubt long for the day of their departure. The fact is, the accounts of their receptions, doings and sayings in the different cities through which they have passed, which monopolizes so much space in the daily papers, has become a perfect bore, and even little "Tommy," the ladies pet, fails to attract and amuse as formerly.—It is confidently expected that great benefits, commercially, will be derived by this country from the visit of these embassadors from a country heretofore sealed against all intercourse with foreign nations, and such will be the result, if they do not become disgusted with our people.

☞ Last week we published the proceedings of the Peoples' Party County Convention, which was evidently more harmonious than many of its friends supposed it would be, and much more so than its opponents desired. With most of the candidates nominated the people of this place are unacquainted, all the offices, as usual, having been taken by the other side of the county, with the exception of the tail end. The resolution endorsing the Chicago nominess, although passed by a clever majority, could not, as it was sought to be, passed unanimously. That the ticket nominated will be elected, previous results would lead us to infer, but as there are "many slips 'twixt the cup and the lip," we will make no rash predictions until the returns are footed up.

☞ Peterson's Magazine for July contains a beautiful steel engraving entitled "Saved," representing a large New Foundland dog with a boy whom he has just saved from drowning. The fashion plates are beautiful and give all the new fashions now out. The reading matter is interesting as usual. Upon the whole it is an extra number in point of attractiveness, only $2 per annum. Chas. J. Peterson, Philadelphia.

THE PICTURES.—We have received from P. S. Hemline & Co., of Philadelphia, copies of two engravings just published by them, entitled "The Landing of Columbus" and "The Raising of Lazarus." They are excellent engravings and well worth the price asked for them, $1,00 each. In another column will be found the advertisement of the firm offering, the pictures named and a valuable gift for the sum of $1,00.

Vote of Censure.

On Wednesday last, the House of Representatives at Washington passed the following series of resolutions, censuring the President and Secretary of the Navy.—These resolutions were reported last year by the Committee on Public Expenditures, but were laid over. They were adopted by a vote of 119 to 60 :—

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Navy has, with the sanction of the President, abused his discretionary power in the selection of a coal agent, and in the purchase of fuel for the Government.

Resolved, That the contract made by the Secretary of the Navy, under date of September 23, 1858, with William C N. Swift, for the delivery of live oak timber, was made in violation of law, and in a manner unusual, improper, and injurious to the public service.

Resolved, That the distribution, by the Secretary of the Navy, of the patronage in the navy yards among members of Congress, was destructive of discipline, corrupting in its influence, and highly injurious to the public service.

Resolved, That the President and Secretary of the Navy, by receiving and considering the party relations of bidders for contracts with the United States, and the effect of awarding contracts upon pending elections, have set an example dangerous to the public safety, and deserving the reproof of this House.

Resolved, That the appointment, by the Secretary of the Navy, of Daniel B. Martin, chief engineer, as a member of the board of engineers to report upon proposals for constructing machinery for the United States, the said Martin at that time being pecuniarily interested in some of said proposals, is hereby censured by this House.

BOTH SIDES OF THE GRAPE QUESTION.—This is the title of the new work announced some time since, and which has just been issued by A. M. Spangler, editor of "The Farmer and Gardener." It is a neat volume, in which the important question whether the present system of cultivation, pruning and general management, is better adapted to promote health, vigor, longevity and productiveness in the grape vine, than a closer approximation to nature's system, is ably discussed.

The article on the classification of the species and varieties of the grape vine, is not only new, but of the highest importance. Every grape grower, if he has but a single vine, should have a copy, particularly as it can be had for the trifling sum of 35 cts. in cloth, or 25 cts. in paper binding. Address,

A. M. SPANGLER, Philadelphia.

FATAL DISEASE.—The Washington (Pa.) Examiner, states that the disease which has been so disastrous to cattle in the Eastern States has broken out among the sheep of James Morrison, of Chartiers township, in that county, and carried off a large number. On Thursday he lost about forty, and others were in a dying condition on Friday. Mr. M. says the disease is very similar to the cholera in its operations, carrying off the sheep in a short time after being attacked. It behooves our farmers to be on their guard, and take every precaution to prevent the spread of the malady.

TO BE REVIVED.—Our legal friend, M. H. Jolly, Esq., informs us that he intends reviving the Tyrone Star in the course of a few days. We were of the opinion that that star had set, but friend Mat thinks it necessary to the success of Bell and Everett that it should again shed its light upon the political world. By the way, Jolly gave us to understand that he intends to be an independent candidate for the office of District Attorney. If so there will most likely be three candidates in the field in this county for that office, and we may expect a pretty sharp triangular fight.

A CORPORATION THANKING GOD!—It was stated at a recent meeting of the New Jersey Railroad Company that since the road went into operation, 33,000,000 of Passengers have been transported safely, and no passenger has been killed or maimed in the cars during the entire period. In view of the above fact, and the satisfactory state of the company's affairs, the stockholders passed a resolution, offering thanks to God for his providential care.

A VALUABLE LOG.—Recently the administrators of one Elisha Harris, deceased, late a resident of Luzerne county, Pa., offered his effects at public sale, among them an uncouth block of wood, supposed to be part of a cheese press, and which was purchased for 15 cents, by one David M. Hatmacher. On the morning succeeding the sale, the purchaser, in a spirit of inquiry characteristic of the age we live in, split the block open, when he discovered a queer secret door, opened by the pressure of a long rod, and containing bonds, notes and other matters, besides about $2,000 in silver coin. To test the right of ownership in the treasure, an amicable suit for its recovery was instituted in the Common Pleas of Luzerne county, resulting in a verdict for the executors of $4,000.

The Tariff Bill Killed at Last.

All that Meaders will be sorry to learn passed the Tariff Bill, which lately has been killed with such flying colors, ment. We to the Senate by postponethough not wh this exceedingly. Al- bill was very free from faults, this would, when fairly fully considered, and much to restore vigoperation, have done seffering industrial and buoyancy to the try. The Senate has its of the counclusively occupied with its time so exhas had no leisure or inclnigger that it late for the white man, or in to legisstrictions from free labor. Cmove reter's motion to postpone till Dec. Hunvote stood yeas 25, nays 23, or, the pairs and absentees. The affirmative exclusively Democratic, and the negte Republican, except Messrs. Bigler and them. Mr. Hunter's speech on the postponement was a deliberate attack on the whole policy and principle of Mr. Morrill's bill, and a denial of the necessity for increased revenue. Mr. Bigler controverted his positions with facts and figures which were unanswerable. Mr. Seward spoke effectively and ably in favor of the protective policy, showing its beneficial effect upon our industry, and the prosperity of the country. Mr. Simmons demonstrated that the present revenues were insufficient and it was the duty of Congress, if a loan was created, to extinguish the floating debt of $21,000,000, to provide the means for its extinction. These arguments produced no effect on the foregone conclusion of the ruling side, which deliberately voted the postponement in disregard of political consequences.

A SINGULAR TRANSFORMATION.—The following occurrence, reported by the York Republican to have taken place at Stewartstown, in that county, on the 20th of May, belongs to the records of the "wonderful." The story, the truth of which is vouched for by responsible persons, is as follows :—

An Albino, or white negro, living with Mr. Abel Kirkwood, fell, from the effect of an epileptic fit, from the stoop of the house, where he was sitting on a chair, down to the distance of some ten feet.—There he lay, struggling in his spasms for the space of half an hour, when he turned as black as the ace of spades. By Tuesday, the 22d, he was able to walk about town, and complained of nothing save a few bruises, occasioned by the fall, and the ebony hue which still shaded his once fair face. Poor fellow, he was quite loath to part with the resemblance he once bore to a white man, in exchange for his present shadowy phiz as a black. What is more remarkable, is that while his face is just as black as Egyptian darkness, his hair is perfectly white; thus forming a most beautiful and striking contrast. The name of the man who has undergone this remarkable transformation is Nicholas Billingsly, and he is about twenty years of age. The affair has quite mystified the good citizens of Stewartstown, as doubtless it will all others who read or hear of it.

WIND WAGONS.—Andrew Dawson, of Oscaloosa, Kansas, recently constructed a wagon, furnished with sails, rigging, etc., propelled by the aid of wind, with which he went to Pike's Peak mines in twenty days. Encouraged by this success, other parties in the same town set about the construction of the same kind of wagons and on Monday a party of eight started out on the prairies to try one which had just been finished. The wind was blowing a gale at the time; every thing worked to a charm. The occupants, gliding swiftly over the prairies, were delighting themselves with anticipations of a speedy and comfortable trip to the mines, when the velocity of the vehicle created a lively alarm for their safety. The wagon sped onward before the driving wind faster and faster, until the axletrees broke and deposited them all on the ground, and in a somewhat damaged condition from broken heads, bruised limbs and bodies. The speed of the machine is said to have been forty miles per hour.

SELF-SEALING WRAPPERS.—The Post Master General and the Committee on Post Offices of the House have recommended this new postal article to the favorable action of Congress, and a bill is now before that body for its adoption.—Considering the countless millions of newspapers that are read throughout our vast country, and the trifling postage on each, it is believed that the stamping of these wrappers with a cent stamp by the Government, and sale at all post-offices, the same as stamped envelopes, will furnish the public with a neat, cheap, convenient, and much-needed means of enclosing newspapers and all transient printed matter, and thereby largely increase the sum of such matter dispatched by mail, and thus add to the receipts of the Post Office Department from a quarter to half a million dollars annually. They will also benefit the press, by increasing their sales, for the purpose of enclosing to friends. The bill should be passed immediately.—National Intelligencer.

MILK IN FRANCE.—Every drop of milk brought into Paris is tested at the barriers by the lactometer, to see if the "iron-tailed cow" has been guilty of diluting it—if so, the whole of it is remorselessly thrown into the gutter—the Paris milk is very pure in consequence. If a tradesman adulterates any article of food offered for sale he is first fined, and then made publicly to confess his fault by means of a large placard in his window, setting forth the exact nature of the trick he has played upon his customers.

☞ Gen. Thos. S. Jessup, Quarter Master General of the U. S. Army, died at his residence on Thursday last.

Terrible Accident.

About three o'clock Friday afternoon, says the Cincinnati "Enquirer," as the steamer Jacob Strader was ploughing her way up the river to this city, when near Westport, Ky., a short distance below Madison, Ind., the pilot observed a man and a woman in a skiff, crossing the Ohio from the Indiana shore. When first seen the man was leisurely resting upon his oars, and the pilot presumed he was waiting until the boat would pass, in order to ride the waves. To his surprise, however, as the crafts neared each other, the man in the skiff vigorously applied his oars to the water, and endeavored to cross the line of the steamer. The engines were instantly reversed, but the velocity of the boat could not be checked in time to prevent a collision. The steamer struck the skiff, which was instantly capsized, and with its occupants swept under the larboard wheel. A yawl was immediately ordered but the unfortunate couple had disappeared, and were lost to view forever. Several articles of clothing and an umbrella were picked up and conveyed to the Kentucky shore, where an old man, who had witnessed the catastrophe, was standing with a couple of horses. He informed the daughter, and that the woman was his wife, who, in company with her husband, married, was recently had but recently been on a visit to some friends in ing from a brief visit to relations of the sorrowfulana. The lamentations who refused to be comforted, ful in the extreme, and old man, long as the steamer remained in sight, were painwringing his hands and refusing the air continued with his cries.

WIVES OF THE CANDIDATE.—The letter-writers describe Mrs. Lincoln as a lady about thirty-five years old, and a zealous Presbyterian. Mr. Lincoln attends the same church, but is not a member. He, however, is a moral man, and a strict tectotaler. Mrs. Bell is a lady of decided character, energy, and is not bitterly Pro-Slavery in principle. At the murder of the waiter at the hotel in Washington, by Herbert, of California, she took the occasion to express her strong abhorrence of the manners of Southern ruffians who chanced to obtain seats in the National Legislature. Mrs. Douglas has been for a few years—ever since her marriage, in fact—one of the queens of Washington society. Whatever people think of the Little Giant, it is settled by a unanimous vote that Mrs. Douglas is charming. If she were a candidate for nomination, no convention would ignore her claims. If she were running for President, she would unite all suffrages, unless some fanatics went against her on religious grounds; for Mrs. Douglas is an earnest, practical Roman Catholic.

BRUTAL OUTRAGE.—Mrs. Mills, wife of James Mills, of Cambria township, while returning home last Wednesday, on horseback, from a visit to her parents, in Jackson township, was met by a man named Welch, also mounted on horseback, just as she was turning into the road leading to her residence, a short distance west of the farm of Capt. M'Vicker, on the Pittsburg road. He immediately rode up to her, caught hold of the bridle of her horse, and jumping from his horse, compelled her to dismount. He then, in spite of her resistance, violated her person.—She states that when he pulled her from her horse, she supposed he was a horse thief, and that his object was to steal her horse. He was arrested next day in Johnstown, and is now safely lodged in jail.—His residence is, we learn, in Allegheny City, and he is said to be wealthy. He came to this place on Tuesday for the purpose of obtaining a pedler's license from the County Treasurer. He was on his way to Johnstown when the outrage was perpetrated. It occurred three miles west of this place.—Ebensburg Sentinel, June 14.

LITERARY NOTICE.

One of the most interesting and useful publications which comes to our sanctum is the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, a weekly publication, devoted to popular science, new inventions, and the whole range of mechanic and manufacturing art. The SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, has been published for fifteen years, by the well-known Patent Solicitors, Messrs. MUNN & Co. 37 Park Row, New York; and has yearly increased in interest and circulation, until it has attained, we understand, nearly 30,000 subscribers, which is the best evidence that the publication is appreciated by the reading public.

To those of our readers who may not be familiar with the character of the paper, we will state some of the subjects of which it treats. Its illustrated descriptions of all the most important improvements in steam and agricultural machinery, will commend in to the Engineer and Farmer, while the new household inventions and shop tools which are illustrated by engravings and described in its columns, with the practical receipts contained in every number, renders the work desirable to housekeepers, and almost indispensable to every mechanic or smith who has a shop for manufacturing new work, or repairing old.

The SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is universally regarded as the inventor's advocate and monitor; the repository of American inventions, and the great authority on law, and all business connected with Patents. The official list of Claims, as issued weekly from the Patent Office, in Washington, are published regularly in its columns. All the most important Patents issued by the United States Patent Office are illustrated and described on its pages, thus forming an unrivalled history of American inventions.

It is not only the best, but the largest and cheapest paper devoted to Science, Mechanics, Manufacturers, and the Useful Arts published in the world. Hon. Judge Mason, formerly Commissioner of Patents, is not only engaged with the publishers in their immense Patent Agency department, but as a writer on Patent Laws and Practice, his ability is forcibly portrayed in the columns of this paper.

The SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is published once a week, (every Saturday,) each number containing 16 pages of Letter-press, and from 10 to 12 original Engravings of New Inventions, consisting of the most improved Tools, Engines, Mills, Agricultural Machines and Household Utensils, making 52 numbers in a year, comprising 832 pages, and over 500 original engravings, printed on heavy, fine paper, in a form expressly for binding, and all for $2 per annum.

A new volume commences on the 1st of July, and we hope a large number of our townsmen will avail themselves of the present opportunity to subscribe. By remitting $2 by mail to the publishers, MUNN & Co. 37 Park Row, New York, they will send you their paper one year, at the end of which time you will have a volume which you would not part with for treble its cost. The publishers express their willingness to mail a single copy of the paper to such as may wish to see it without charge.

☞ We regret to learn that Capt. Jim Cramer, the "model" conductor, has had another attack of the inflammatory rheumatism, and been compelled to forsake his train. This is unwelcome news to Jim's many friends. We hope soon to see him out again. His place of the Branch Train is filled by Mr. Miller, from the Western Division, who appears every inch a gentleman.

☞ The St. Joseph (Mo.) Democrat, of June 8th, represents the drought as being fearful in that vicinity and adds: A general feeling of gloom is beginning to pervade all classes in this usually most prosperous part of the State, and unless the parched earth is speedily visited with copious rains, it is evident that we are to have a repetition of the famous famine year of 1833.

☞ Queer suicide—A man named Dean Gilbert, living in Prescott, Mass., committed suicide on Saturday night in a very singular manner. He balanced a rock weighing nearly a ton, and fastened it up with a piece of board, and after he had crawled under, kicked the board out, and the rock fell, crushing him to death. He was a temperate man, in comfortable circumstances, only fifty years of age.

☞ The meanest man in the country is in Noble county, Indiana. Having procured a divorce from his wife, she was left without the means of living, and consequently became a charge on the county. It being the custom in that section to let out the paupers to the persons who will keep them for the smallest price, this man underbid the whole parish, and now maintains his former wife at the public expense.

☞ A woman in Detroit has brought an action against her husband to recover wages as a domestic. It seems he procured a divorce from her eight months ago. She knew nothing about it, and lived with him, performing her usual domestic duties. He recently told her of the divorce, and she, much exasperated, seeks to punish him, or at least to make him pay for eight months' service from which his own act had legally released her.

☞ A righteous sentence.—The infamous school teacher, M'Coy, of Cambria county, recently convicted of ravishing one of his scholars, a little girl aged about fourteen years, has been sentenced to the penitentiary for twelve years, and was yesterday lodged in that institution. His guilt was as clear as it was infamous, and the Court gave him the full extent of the law—no doubt regretting that such a wretch could not be consigned within the prison walls for life.

☞ New cure for Neuralgia.—The Journal de Chemie Medicale contains an account of the discovery of a new and powerful sedative in neuralgia, just discovered by Dr. Field. The substance used is nitrate of oxyde and glycile, and is obtained by treating glycerine at a low temperature with sulphuric or nitric acid. One drop mixed with 99 drops of spirits of wine constitute the first dilution. It has been tried upon animals and patients with remarkable effect. A case of neuralgia in an old lady, which had resisted every known remedy, was completely cured by this new agent. It has also been tried in dental neuralgia with equal success.

BLOOD FOOD! BLOOD FOOD!

We have varied feelings in reading the advertisement of Dr. BRONSON'S BLOOD FOOD, in another column; but we think gratification predominates; for, though we regret to see so celebrated a man coming forward, even in appearance, under the same flag as quacks—that is, by resorting to advertising—yet we take satisfaction also in knowing that there is now a reliable preparation before the people for that most melancholy and fatal disease—Consumption, and other organic complaints.

Dr. BRONSON is a lecturer in our Medical Colleges, and his success in his speciality has been so wonderful that he has consented, at variance with the precedices of every regular practitioner, to make it known, as he is doing, for the benefit of suffering humanity.

He has secured for Agents, however, a firm whose respectability separates entirely his preparations from all sugs of quackery. Messrs. CHURCH & DUFFY are his agents, as they are also for that most invaluable of preparations, Dr. EATON'S INFANTILE CORDIAL. If mothers could know the great care taken in putting up this article—some idea of which they can form by comparison of it with any other article of the kind—they would prefer it to anything that has ever been offered them. For our our part, if we had a child suffering, we would not hesitate to administer this preparation, knowing that such careful druggists would not engage in anything that was not perfectly safe and ineffectual.—Quebec Gazette.

☞ Nature is the great physician. This is now admitted by the medical profession, as a fundamental principle of healing science. It is wisely provided by the human economy, that whenever anything is wrong in the human system, the natural forces of the body are brought to bear to expel the disease. The great aim, therefore, is to strengthen the natural powers. This has been kept in view by the skillful compounders of Dr. J. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, which operate to give fresh vitality to all the organs of the body. The effects of this medicine upon the stomach, the liver and the kidneys, are prompt and decisive. The patient who is wise enough to quit drugging, and try the BITTERS, soons feels as if he had taken a new lease of life, and as he continues the use of the article, he is overjoyed to find the streams of health coursing through his frame. Let all from whose cheek the bloom of health has departed, give Dr. J. Hostetter's Bitters a trial. Sold by druggists and dealers, generally, everywhere.

☞ See advertisement in another column.

☞ "OH THAT THE SKIN of an innocent sheep should be made into parchment, and written on to the undoing of a man!" quoth Shakspeare. He might also have deplored the ruining of men's forms by the uncouth manner in which some ungracious tailors butcher up the cloth made from the wool grown by these same harmless sheep. To see the perfection of the art of working up cloth wisely and well, and so as to set off to the best advantage the forms of its wearers, call at the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut St. above Sixth, Phila. and examine their stock of garments for gentlemen and youths.

TOOTHACHE.

This disease can be cured by Dr. Keyser's Toothache Remedy, prepared by him in Pittsburg, Pa., which is put up in bottles and sold at 25 cents each. It is an excellent medicine, when diluted, for spongy and tender gums, and is worth ten times its price to all who need it. Sold here by G. W. Kessler, Druggist.

LOCAL ITEMS.

MECHANICS' PIC NIC.—We attended this pic nic, which was held in Beale's Woods, on Saturday last. When we arrived on the ground we found the musicians on the platform, and quite a number of "fair women and brave men," "tripping the light fantastic toe" "through the giddy mazes of the magic dance," on a platform which had been put down for the purpose. The music of the band (which, by the way, was a good one,) appeared to infuse life into all present, and those who could not get upon the platform, kept time with their feet, or "cut the pigeon wing" around the outskirts. Everything moved along "merry as a marriage belle" until about 11 o'clock, when a pretty smart shower of rain caused those who had not been provident enough to bring umbrellas to seek shelter in an old untenanted house close by. Although the rain dampened the grass a little and the ladies' skirts much more, it did not dampen the ardor of the young folks, and scarcely had the clouds broke way ere they were again upon the platform ready to join in "the maze of the fleet dance." Cotillion, waltz, and polka followed each other in rapid succession until one o'clock, when the company was summoned to a table fairly groaning beneath the weight of good things placed thereon. Exercise had sharpened appetites, and full justice was done to the dinner, which was one of the best we have ever seen served up on such an occasion, and did great credit to Mr. Samuel Hileman, of White Hall Hotel, by whom it was got up. It was partaken of by over two hundred persons, and there was plenty for as many more. After dinner the dancing platform was the chief attraction, although there were several swings in different parts of the grove which were well patronized, and the music and dancing were kept up until six o'clock, at which time the party returned to town. The managers may well feel satisfied of this their "First Annual Pic Nic," and we doubt not their next one will be much more extensive. They attended to their part faithfully, and did all they could to render the day pleasant to every one. Our wish is that they may hie upon a more pleasant day next year.

THANKS.—We have certainly been in luck, during the past week, in the way of receiving boquets.

First came a handsome and skillfully arranged boquet of choice and fragrant flowers, handed to our Senior "imp of darkness," by some kind friend, who insists upon remaining incognito. Although unknown, your boquet was not the less welcome, and it even now fills "our house at home" with a fragrance so delicious that we thank you every time we enter it.

Next, we found a handsome boquet suspended from the nob of our office door, and on a slip of paper attached thereto, we read "From Mrs. Daniel Price." Thank you, thank you, Mrs. P., we value your present much, but the spirit which prompted it more. We are fond of flowers, and consider them, at this season, most acceptable presents. We always feel better on the receipt of such tokens of remembrance. We are led to believe that there are a few who think about us and appreciate our labors.

Next came a mammoth boquet, from a fair friend in the country, composed of wild and tame flowers, arranged in a style which exhibited taste and skill. We don't know whether she is the philanthrophist who has a little brother Jake or not, but wouldn't be surprised if she was. If she is, we hope she will hereafter dispense with the services of our friend down stairs, and bring up her welcome presents in person. As we are married, of course she need not be afraid of captivating either of us, although we hope she may be as fortunate in the choice of a partner for life as a couple of ladies of our acquaintance, who could not be induced to exchange theirs for any consideration.

The latch string of our door is always on the outside to those who have such presents as those above mentioned.

☞ Our Constable, Joe Ely, has been doing a pretty fair business in the way of impounding hogs during the last few days. He had some 17 in the pound, on Tuesday evening last, when a woman and man, whose hogs were in the lot, took the law in their own hands, and while Joe was absent, cut down the pound and let all the hogs out. This way of getting hogs out of a pound, however, proved a little more expensive than they imagined, as Joe brought them up before one of our Justices and they were fined $5 each and costs. This example will deter others from attempting the same game, as Joe is not to be fooled with, and when he undertakes to do a thing he does it. So, look out for your hogs.

☞ On Friday afternoon last we were visited by the first shower of the season which was accompanied with much hail. The rain poured down in torrents for about twenty minutes, mixed with a heavy fall of hail-stones, which, however, were very small, and did no damage. We learn that the storm was much more severe on the other side of the mountain, in Sinking Valley.

NEW RAILROAD.—We copy the following from one of the Bellefonte papers of last week.—Whether the Central Railroad will go into the enterprise remains to be seen; the trade of the valley named may be considerable, but whether it would be sufficient to keep up a road is the question. We should like to see the road spoken of carried through:—

The citizens of Pennsvalley are contemplating the construction of a Railroad from Lewistown to Tyrone, by way of Bellefonte. John A. Wright & Co., have offered to build the road as far as their works, and the citizens along the route on the other side of the mountain promise to take stock enough to construct the road.—The people on this side of the mountain reckon on the aid and co-operation of the Central Railroad Company.

The bridges between Lewistown and Tyrone, some 25 in number, will have to be rebuilt during the next ten years, and the cost of rebuilding these bridges will alone be more than it would cost to construct a road from Lewistown to Bellefonte. The Central Company is, no doubt, shrewd enough to appreciate the value of the trade they would gain by building a road through by way of Bellefonto to intersect their road at Tyrone. The trade of Penns, Nittany and Brush Valley's would alone warrant them the construction of such a road, and by and by when the Sandy Barrens has been reduced to a state of cultivation this will be the greatest grain producing region in the State.

There will be a meeting on the 15th inst., at Milroy, when all persons favorable to the construction of the road are expected to attend.—This is a move in the right direction and we want to see the work go on. Let there be something definite done at the meeting on the 15th. Inaction will ruin all, it has lost the people of Pennsvalley a road three times, and it is now time that they would learn to strike while the iron is hot.

THE SIMPLE SECRET.—Twenty clerks in a store. Twenty young men in a village. All want to get along in the world, and all expect to do so. One of the clerks will rise to be a partner and make a fortune. One of the compositors will own a newspaper and become an influential and prosperous citizen. One of the apprentices will come to be a master-builder. One of the villagers will get a farm and live like a patriarch. But which is destined to be the lucky individual? Lucky? There is no luck about it. The thing is almost as certain as the Rule of Three. The young fellow who will distance his competitors is he who masters his business, who preserves his integrity, who lives clearly and purely, who never gets in debt, who gains friends by deserving them, and puts his money into a saving bank. There are some ways to fortune that look shorter than this old dusty highway. But the staunch men of the community, the men who achieve something really worth having, good fortune, good name, and a serene old age, all go this road.

THE LEAFY MONTH OF JUNE.—Never has the country looked more beautiful than it does at present. The abundant rains which have fallen have mantled the earth with a deeper verdure—no scorching suns have yet faded the richly variegated loveliness of the summer flowers, and berries and fruit-bearing trees give signs of an abundant yield of their grateful delicacies. The golden oriole, and its plainer vested brother robin, dart from tree to tree, and while picking the cherry branches, whistle right saucily, as if to say, "The garden of the world is large, and there is fruit enough in it for all of us"—the little brown wren comes hopping up to the window sill for its daily meal of crumbs and seed, and emboldened by frequent visits, eats from the cage of the canary bird. The wind pipes softly through rustling leaves, and branch nods to branch, repeating the truant's story—all nature is jubilant with life, and her many voices re-echo the Poet's truth, "God made the country, and man made the town."

A CHILD HURT.—On Saturday evening last, a little daughter of Mr. Daniel Pope, of this borough, aged about four years, wandered to the depot of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and while the 7 o'clock train was lying there she clambered upon the platform of one of the cars, and escaping the notice of the employees on the train was carried off. As the train passed through town the child was observed on the platform by a number of our citizens, but they could render no assistance. Her father, thinking that she would be put off at Petersburg, the next station, started for that place, but had not proceeded more than half a mile on his journey before he found his child lying on the ground, with her skull badly fractured, and life almost extinct.—She was brought to town as soon as possible, and medical aid summoned. During Saturday night she revived a little, but remained insensible. At the time we put this in type—Monday 11 o'clock A. M.—the child is still alive, but its recovery is considered doubtful.—Huntingdon American.

MORE GOOD BEEF.—We think the citizens of Altoona are about as well supplied with good beef as those of any other town in the country. We have to notice this week that Capt. Leonard, one of our excellent butchers, has purchased a lot of cattle from some of the good stock feeders in the vicinity of Frankstown, in this county, which cannot be excelled by those brought from any other quarter. They will all dress in the neighborhood of 800 lbs. clean meat. Such beef is a luxury and it can be had at the market house of Capt. L., on Virginia street, every Tuesday and Saturday morning. The Captain is determined not to fall behind his competitors in the business, in this place, in the quality of his beef.

ANOTHER PIC NIC.—A number of the young ladies of this place got up a pic nic, one day last week, and, taking a few gentlemen with them, (of course it wouldn't be a pic nic without them,) repaired to a grove adjacent to town to spend the day. That they enjoyed themselves, there is no doubt, but we judge more particularly from the fact thas they did not forget the printers, but remembered us with a large cake from out their full store of good things provided. To whom we are most indebted for this we do not know, but presume that our friend the Dr. had a hand in it, although the boys came very near "euchreing" both he and us out of it.

M. E. S. S. PIC NIC.—The scholars and teachers connected with the Methodist Sunday-School in this place, held their annual pic nic in the grove back of the West Ward schoolhouses, to-day.

ESCAPE OF PRISONERS FROM THE COUNTY JAIL.—On Monday morning last, the gable end of our county jail, next the Court House, showed a hole in the wall about twenty feet from the ground, and two pieces of bed ticking tied together suspended therefrom, upon which it was evident persons had descended. Upon examination four of the prisoners were discovered to be missing, viz: Jefferson Hamilton, George Helfright, Harrison Eckle and a colored individual named Edward Stewart. The brick wall of the jail is lined with three inch oak plank upon which is firmly rivetted sheet iron of the thickness of a quarter of an inch. The rivets of the sheet iron appear to have been removed by means of a gas fitters cold chisel which was found on the floor. The oak plank was bored with an inch and a quarter auger, about two feet long, which was also left on the premises, and then the brick carefully removed and drawn inside, to guard against the noise of the fall outside. The descent was then made from the cell next to the Court House into the lot by means of the bedding. Previously to this, however, two large padlocks on the cell door were picked with an ingeniously contrived piece of wire which they also left behind them.

Hamilton and Helfright were charged with the robbery of a store at Bell's Mills in this county, some time in February last. Eckel was charged with the larcency of a small quantity of store goods, in Frankstown, and the colored man, Stewart, with assault and battery.—Whig.

ANSWER THE QUESTIONS.—As the deputy U.S. Marshals are now engaged in taking the census, the following from the Cincinnati Commercial is not without interest here:—U. S. Marshal Sifford served summonses yesterday against three citizens, two gentlemen and a lady, to appear before the U. S. Circuit Court, and answer for refusing to make returns of their property, etc., according to the schedule prepared by the Secretary of the Interior, under authority of an act of Congress for taking the census. By the fifteenth section of that law, authority is given to the U. S. Marshal to prosecute all persons refusing to make the returns required of them, the penalty imposed being $30 and costs. Our citizens should remember that they are subject to a fine of $30 for not answering readily and correctly the questions of the Marshal. It is thought the fines which will be collected in this way will go far towards paying the expenses of taking the census. We hope none of our citizens will contribute to this fund.

☞ Quite a number of delegates from the West to the Baltimore Convention, passed thro' this place on Friday and Saturday last. It was at first reported that there would be some 1000 or 1100 of a delegation from Chicago and Pittsburgh on the Express East on Friday night, accompanied by several bands of music, and a large number of our citizens collected at the depot to get a sight of them and hear the music. When the train arrived it was found that there were only about ninety on board and no music. If all the delegations dwindle down as this one did, Baltimore will not be overstocked. A delegation from Pittsburgh passed through on Saturday night accompanied by a band.

TO THE LADIES.—Miss Jennie Scott requests us to inform the ladies of this place and vicinity that she is now selling off her stock of summer bonnets at cost, in order to close them out. Ladies who have not yet been rigged out with a new bonnet, can now have an opportunity of getting one at a low figure. To secure a bargain and the pick of the lot, call soon.

ANOTHER INVENTION.—An employee in the Penn'a R. R. shops, at Harrisburg, has invented a machine for turning trucks, while in the course of construction, without the aid of block and tackle and derrick, as they are now turned. The invention is said to be a good one and obviates much of the danger now attendant upon the business.

LOGAN TOWNSHIP, June 18, 1860.

Messrs. Editors:—As pic nics, excursions and summer parties are now the order of the day, may I be allowed a place in your columns to sketch a horseback excursion by a piscatorial party from Logan township, to the Reservoir, near Hollidaysburg. The day fixed upon proved one of rare delightfulness, and a glorious time was, of course, anticipated as the horses were being saddled for an early start. Everything being in readiness, the road soon resounded with the clattering hoofs of prancing steeds, and merry voices rendered the air jubilant. At Altoona a halt was called, during which the party came in for a full share of observation, and conjecture was at fault as to whence it came or whither it was going. Whether the observers and surmisers became fully informed we did not stay to learn.

After leaving Altoona many lively attempts were made, in John Gilpin style, to obtain precedence in the van, and much skill in horsemanship manifested, especially by the ladies. Our friend H. and his lady finally obtained the road, and led off into the famous city of Hollidaysburg, reining up in front of the "American House," where we were waited upon and ushered into comfortable apartments by "mine host" Daniel Ramey. Dinner was soon announced, and we sat down to a table laden with a supply of delicacies which would have gladdened the heart and tickled the palate of the most fastidious epicure.

After dinner our host escorted us to the Reservoir, where fun, frolic and fishing were in order. Whether the gentlemen angled most for the fishes or the hearts of the ladies in the party, we will not pretend to decide. Suffice it to say, all appeared to enjoy themselves amazingly. On returning to town in the evening an excellent supper was served up at the "American," which received ample attention. Several toasts, pertinent to the occasion, dedicated to the ladies, were read and caused much merriment.

Supper over, our horses were ordered and we were soon homeward bound, with colors flying. We arrived at the residence of Mr. H. at about 8 o'clock, P. M., where most of the party alighted and closed out the remainder of the evening in social chit chat. Evidently the day was enjoyed by all, and will long be remembered as one of the festivities of the season. J

The Latest from the East!! THE PROPRIETORS OF THE "MODEL STORE," corner of Annie and Virginia Streets, take pleasure in informing the citizens of Altoona and vicinity that they have received their first stock of SPRING AND SUMMER GOODS, to which they respectfully invite the attention of all, and particularly the ladies, feeling confident that our present Stock of Goods is well worth an examination, and believing also that we have bought them on such terms as will enable us to offer inducements to purchasers. Our stock of Dry Goods is large and varied, comprising all the newest styles of Prints, Delaines, Debeges, Lavellas, Poil de Cheeres, Ginghams, Tunjores, Challies, Travelling Mixtures, Black and Fancy Silks, together with a full line of Domestics. We have a large assortment of Notions and Fancy articles, such as Gloves, &c.

Our stock of BOOTS AND SHOES is unusually large and very cheap. In these goods we can not be beat by any one either in quality or price, for proof of which please call and see goods and prices.

We would invite attention to our large stock of CARPETS, OIL CLOTHS, WALL PAPER AND BORDER, which we are able to sell at greatly reduced prices. We have also a good assortment of HARDWARE, QUEENSWARE, WOODEN AND WILLOW-WARE, GROCERIES.

Being truly thankful for the patronage heretofore received from the public, we cordially invite our friends to call and see us again, hoping that the benefit may be mutual.

J. & J. LOWTHER.

A BOOK FOR PIONEERS.—THE CENTRAL GOLD REGION: The Grain, Pastoral, and Gold Regions of North America, with some New Views of its Physical Geography, and Observations on the Pacific Railroad. By WILLIAM GILPIN, late of U. S. Army. Illustrated by numerous maps.

It proves that the immense region lying between the Eastern Cordilleras and the Mississippi River has a climate and soil capable of supporting and enriching the most dense population in the world.

It points out the existence of GOLD and PRECIOUS METALS in mass, in locations yet unoccupied, and in quantities far beyond the most sanguine anticipations of those seeking for it, capable of yielding a million of dollars per day. One vol. 8vo., $1 25. Liberal terms to agents and the trade. SOWER, BARNES & CO., Publishers,

No. 37 North Third St., Phila.

QUEENSWARE, JUST RECEIVED. A large and fashionable assortment at the store of J. B HILEMAN.

ALL THE STANDARD PATENT MEDICINES AT KESSLER'S. 1-tf.

THE ONLY PREPARATION Having Proofs so strong and direct as to EXPEL THE DOUBTS OF ALL.

For Statesmen, Judges, Editors, Physicians of the oldest schools as well as now, give it their unqualified sanction, and I recommend it for all cases of eruptions, and diseases of the scalp and brain: ask all who have used it, unite in testifying that it will preserve the hair from being gray, and from falling to any age, as well as restore. Read the following:—

Oak Grove, S. C. June 24th, 1859.

PROF. O. J. WOOD: Dear Sir:—Your Hair Restorative is rapidly gaining popularity in this community. I have had occasion to lay prejudice aside, and give your Hair Restorative a perfect test:—

During the year 1854, I was so unfortunate as to be thrown from my sulky against a rock near the road-side, from which my head received a most terrible blow; causing a great deal of irritation, which communicated to the brain and external surface of the head, from the effects of which my hair was finally destroyed over the entire surface of the head. From the time I first discovered its dropping, however, up to the time of its total disappearance, I employed everything I could think of, being a professional man myself, and, as I thought, understanding the nature of the disease, but was finally defeated in every prescription advanced.

Those and no other circumstances induced me to resort to your worthy Hair Reasorative, which I have every reason to believe, produced a very happy result; two months after the first application, I had as beautiful a head of young hair as I ever saw, for which I certainly owe you my most sincere thanks. Rest assured, dear sir, I shall recommend your remedy to all inquirers; moreover, I shall use my influence, which I flatter myself to say, is not a little.

You can publish this if you think proper.

Yours, very respectfully, M. J. WRIGHT, M. D.

Office of the Jeffersonian, Philippi, Va., Dec. 12th, 1858.

Dear sir:—I feel it my duty as well as my pleasure, to state to you the following circumstance, which you can use as you think proper. A gentleman of this place, (a lawyer,) has been bald ever since his early youth; so much so, that he was compelled to wear a wig. He was induced to use a bottle of your "Hair Restorative," which he liked very much; and after using some two or three bottles his hair grew out quite luxuriantly, and he now has a handsome head of hair. The gentleman's name is Bradford, and as he is very well known in our adjoining counties, many persons can testify to the truth of this statement; I give it to you at the request of Mr. Bradford. You can sell a great deal of your Hair Restorative in this and the adjoining counties if you have the proper agents. Yours, &c.,

THOMPSON SURGHNOR.

DR. WOOD: Dear Sir: Permit me to express the obligations I am under for the entire restoration of my hair to its original color; about the time of my arrival in the United States it was rapidly becoming gray, but upon the application of your "Hair Restorative" it soon recovered its original hue. I consider your Restorative as a very wonderful invention, quite efficacious as well as agreeable.

S. THALDERG.

The Restorative is put up in bottles of three sizes, viz: large, medium, and small; the small holds ½ a pint, and retails for one dollar per bottle; the medium holds at least twenty per cent. more in proportion than the small, retails for two dollars per bottle; the large holds a quart, 40 per cent. more in proportion, and retails for $3.

CONSUMPTION AND ASTHMA CURED.

DR. H. JAMES,

Discovered, while in the West Indies, a certain cure for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and General Debility. The remedy was discovered by him when his only child, a daughter, was given up to die. His child was cured, and is now alive and well. Desirous of benefitting his fellow mortals, he will send to those who wish it, the recipe containing full directions for making and successfully using this remedy, free, on receipt of their names with stamp for return postage. When received, take it to G. W. Kessler, Druggist, Altoona. There is not a single symptom of Consumption which it does not at once take hold of and dissipate. Night sweats, peevishness, irritation of the nerves, failure of memory, difficult expectoration, sharp pains in the lungs, sore throat, chilly sensations, nausea at the stomach, inaction of the bowels, wasting away of the muscles. MOTHERS and why? because it never fails to afford instantaneous relief when given in time. It acts as if by magic, and one trial alone will convince you that what we say is true. It contains

Thousands are daily speaking in the praise of DR. EATON'S

INFANTILE CORDIAL,

NO PAREGORIC OR OPIATE

of any kind, and therefore relieves by removing the sufferings of your child, instead of by deadening its sensibilities. For this reason, it commends itself as the only reliable preparation now known for CHILDREN TEETHING, DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, GRIPING IN THE BOWELS, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, WIND, COLD IN THE HEAD, and CROUP, also, for softening the gums, reducing inflammation, regulating the Bowels, and relieving pain, it has no equal—being an anti-spasmodic it is used with unfailing success in all cases of CONVULSION OR OTHER FITS. As you value the life and health of your children, and wish to save them from those sad and blighting consequences which are certain to result from the use of narcotics of which all other remedies for Infantile Complaints are composed, take none but DR. EATON'S INFANTILE CORDIAL, this you can rely upon. It is perfectly harmless, and cannot injure the most delicate infant. Price, 25 cents. Full directions accompany each bottle. Prepared only by

BLOOD FOOD

Healthy human Blood upon being always presents us with the same essential elements, and gives of course the TRUE STANDARD. Analyze the Blood of a person suffering from Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Scrofula, &c., and we find in every instance certain deficiencies in the red globules of Blood. Supply these deficiencies, and you are made well. The BLOOD FOOD is founded upon this Theory—hence its astonishing success. There are

ANALYZED

FIVE PREPARATIONS

adapted to the deficiencies of the Blood in different diseases. For COUGHS, COLDS, BRONCHITIS, or any affection whatever of the THROAT or LUNGS, inducing CONSUMPTION, use No. 1, which is also the No. for DEPRESSION OF SPIRITS, LOSS OF APPETITE, and for all CHRONIC COMPLAINTS, arising from DYSPEPSIA, GENERAL DEBILITY, and NERVOUS PROSTRATION. No. 2, for LIVER COMPLAINTS, No. 3, for DYSPEPSIA.—Being already prepared for absorption it is TAKEN BY DROPS and carried immediately into the circulation, so that what you gain you retain. The No. 4 is for FEMALE IRREGULARITIES, HYSTERIA, WEAKNESSES, &c. See special directions for this. For SALT RHEUM, ERUPTIONS, SCROFULOUS, KIDNEY, and BLADDER COMPLAINTS, take No. 5. In all cases the directions must be strictly followed. Price of the Blood Food $1 per bottle. Sold by CHURCH & DUPONT,

No. 409 Broadway, New-York.

JACOB SNYDER, TAILOR,

The Hero of One Hundred Fits per Month!

I would respectfully set forth my claim to public attention, as a Fashionable Tailor, as follows:

Because I keep an excellent assortment of Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings and Trimmings, which, when examined, always please.

Because my work is made up in a manner that takes down the country and gives all my customers a city appearance.

Because I am not inferior as a Cutter to the best to be found anywhere.

Because long experience in my business gives me entire control over it, and I am not dependant upon any one to lift me out of the suds.

Because I am still on the sunny side of forty, and therefore my taste as a Cutter and workman unimpaired.

Call on me, in the corner room of the "Brant House." Give me a trial and you will go away pleased.
